TO END NEAR EAST SCRAP

Declares Participation Would Settle Problem 500 Years Old

Boston, Nov. 25.—Georges Clemenceau, answering what he said was "almost a dare" that he disclose just what he wanted of America, told an audience in Tremont Temple yesterday that he would like to see the United States take a seat at the Lausanne conference, declaring this nation could at once settle the Eastern problem.

His fighting blood up, the "Tiger" of France turned from the abstract to the specific and answered his critics at Washington with barbed phrases. What he really came to America for, he declared, was to seek to draw the United States fully into the conference for the settlement of the Near East crisis.

Speaking before a fashionable audience that had agreed to the extent of giving him "three raps and a tiger," led by Gov. Cox, Clemenceau said he had not intended to tell Americans how to run their own business.

"But they have asked me to go further," he said, referring to the assertions of senators at Washington that his addresses were too vague. "They also dared me. I am ready to-day in Boston to go a little further. I'll give you not an advice, but what I think. It is the very simplest thing in the world.

"There is at Lausanne a conference where England and France are supposed to agree with Italy, which might meet with some difficulties. Let the Yankee come and say, 'Good day gentlemen, is there a seat for me?' They will give him an arm chair.

"Never were circumstances better. Go there and you will meet the Eastern question, which is troubling the world for the last 500 years. And you will do more. You will settle it, because you can do it, because the presence of America in Europe again will tell the Germans that they won't go farther than certain limits, and because everybody will understand that there is a moral and material power which is to take possession of the world, not for domination but for freedom.

"Let my conclusion be this: Let us unite. Let us be good. Let us be free."

The aged war premier, looking a trifle worn, but full of enthusiasm spoke for more than an hour. Several times he warned off Col. Stephen Bonnell, conductor of his tour, when the colonel rose and whispered he had talked long enough.

"Let me say just a little more," he would insist, as the audience applauded, and say more he did, until he had had his say.

SAYS CLEMENCEAU'S
PURPOSE IS SELFISH"Tiger" Here Solely For Advantage of Franco-Hiram Johnson
Charges

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—A charge that Georges Clemenceau, France's war premier, is not concerned with two world wars, but with his country's wealth, is made in a statement made yesterday by United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson.

"He comes to America the foremost champion of France to insist that America in some nebulous, undisclosed fashion, shall be a part of the European maelstrom to which France has contributed so much," Johnson said. "He has a single thought; France and France's advantage. I admire his sturdy patriotism that would let the rest of the world go hang if France only could be benefited.

"I do not criticize his effort, with the aid of some of our internationalists who are thinking more of profit than patriotism, to push us blindly into Europe's troubles for France's gain. But remembering the Paris conference and Clemenceau's attitude there, with the Versailles treaty and its economic suicide before us, the most generous and charitable of Americans may be pardoned for courteously declining the perverted invitation of the eloquent Frenchman to become a part of France's unknown adventures or the economic or other wars of controversy of Europe.

COST OF GRANITE STRIKE

State Already Has Paid Out At least $30,000, to Deputies

Montpelier, Nov. 25.—The bill which the state of Vermont has been called on to pay for police protection in granite strike zones is a large one. The cost up to this morning was $29,614.83, according to figures obtained from the state auditor's office. Nearly all of this is to pay the per diem and of deputy sheriffs employed in and around the quarry district in the town of Barre. The time is seven months and the cost averages over $1,000 a month for the period.

CHILDERS DIED
WITHOUT SPEAKING
TO EXECUTIONERSFaced Execution in Presence

LONDON FEARS FUTURE

Tragedy May Mark Beginning of Another Turbulent Chapter in Irish History

London, Nov. 25.—The place and manner of the execution of Erskine Childers has not been officially announced.

The Dublin Express states positively that Childers was shot by firing squad in the Kilmainham jail. The paper quotes the statement by the Republican publicity department that after Childers had been notified the execution was to take place, he requested to see the Protestant clergyman he had known when a boy. The minister was with him the statement said, when he walked to execution. He spoke no word to his executioners.

The execution of Erskine Childers has shocked and startled England even more than the death of Michael Collins. Well wishers of the Irish Free State, of whom there are many in London, expect that the execution of Childers may mean the beginning of a new chapter in the turbulent history of Ireland. In many quarters the fact is expressed that this chapter may be described by the word "reprisals" and that the reprisals may be bloodier and develop into more intense internecine warfare than that which has gone before.

Childers' wife is an American woman and traces her ancestry back to the American revolutionary days. She was the heroine of an adventure when Childers in 1914, as a retort to the Ulsterite landing arms in North Ireland, brought a consignment of arms for South Ireland to the coast a short distance north of Dublin. Mrs. Childers, who is described as a daring yachtswoman, is said to have steered the yacht to the coast in the darkness of the night.

CHILDERS STRONG FIGURE

Was Military Strategist, Who Planned
Uprising in Ireland

London, Nov. 25.—Announcement of the execution in Dublin of Erskine Childers, leading lieutenant of Eamon De Valera, was received here shortly after noon yesterday. It came as a surprise to England, where it was believed the free state authorities would hesitate to impose this penalty.

The execution of Childers removes the most important figure in the republican movement in Ireland next to Mr. De Valera with whom Childers, a man of strong personality, is generally credited here with having had strong influence.

To Childers is ascribed perhaps the leading part in engineering the present armed revolt against the free state government and he was known as the military strategist who planned the operations.

It was to Childers that Winston Churchill, former colonial secretary, recently referred in a speech as "that mischievous, murderous renegade that Englishman who is inspired by an equal measure of hatred both for this island and for the one in which he now has taken up his abode."

The opinion has been frequently expressed in responsible quarters here that the free state authorities could not "sit on their hands" as Eamon De Valera, as they did on Childers, at any time they desired, but that they did not wish to do so in view of the possible aftermath.

The question which immediately sprang into the minds of Londoners interested in Irish affairs, when they heard the news of Childers' execution, was whether the Irish republicans would attempt reprisals, and it seemed to be thought not unlikely that these would have to be reckoned with.

The execution of Childers cuts short the career of a mysterious figure whose activities in the Irish events of recent years have never been fully revealed, although he is generally regarded as having been the most extreme of the irreconcilables.

Childers was a nephew of the late Hugh Culling Eardley Childers, chancellor of the exchequer under Gladstone. Childers, who at one time was a clerk in the British House of Commons, served in the South African war and was with the naval air force during the recent war, being awarded the distinguished service cross for his achievements. He attained fame as the author of the German spy story "The Riddle of the Sands" and wrote many other books.

TO ENTER PROTEST.

Joseph Connolly, Irish Free State Consul
General at New York

New York, Nov. 24.—Joseph Connolly, consul general here of the Irish free state, has resigned by cable and called for Ireland to protest against the imprisonment of Mary MacSwiney, and the other measures of the government which resulted in the recent execution of four adherents of the Eamon De Valera republicans.

FILLING JAILS WITH RECKLESS DRIVERS

Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—Thirty-one more persons, including one woman, were in jail yesterday for reckless driving, bringing up to 85 the total to receive such sentences in the Los Angeles police court this week.

Fifty alleged offenders were notified to appear yesterday. "If we cannot get all of the speeders in the courtroom we will adjourn to a vacant lot," announced Judge Joseph F. Chambers.

"I am sending speed maniacs to jail because that is where they belong."

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—The California State Automobile Association has appointed 200 members to co-operate with the San Francisco police department in reporting traffic law violations by autoists.

SAYS SHIPPING BILL
WILL SURELY PASSMondell So Assures President, in Spite of 7 Hours of Fervid Debate

Washington, Nov. 25.—Sailing along through peaceful and then through turbulent seas, the shipping bill held its own in the House yesterday as friends sought to speed its voyage and enemies fought to sink it by the head.

Whether seven solid hours of debate, topping off a whole day of that had come before, had changed many votes leaders declined to say. But while the debate was still raging late in the day with only a handful of members on the floor, Representative Mondell, the Republican leader went to the White House and measure would be passed on the eve of Thanksgiving. He did not say how many votes it would have to spare.

Fourteen members spoke for or against the bill yesterday, but only two broke out of the party line. Representative Gahn, Ohio, Republican member of the merchant marine committee, which framed it, declared he would not vote with the Republicans, asserting that the bill had been jammed through the committee. Turning to the Democrats he said it would be to their advantage to let it pass, with the "certainty that it would mean the crushing of the republican organization two years hence." Representative O'Connor, Democrat, Louisiana, spoke for the bill.

The principal attack on the measure was made by Representative Davis of Tennessee, democratic member of the merchant marine committee, who spoke for three hours.

"If it becomes a law," he exclaimed, "there will be the worst scandal in the history of the American republic."

IN MEMORY OF MRS. DALEY

Letter to the Banner From Milton
C. Hardy

Editor of the Banner:
I am in receipt of your paper of Nov. 13th having been sent to me from New Rochelle, N. Y. I learn with regret of Mrs. Daley's death, but now that she has gone, we can think of her as being with her own, with Emmett, my father and mother, for Emmett will be with them, because they loved him as I and my brothers did. Thank God there is no church in that immortality we all hope and pray for.

Some twenty years ago, if I remember correctly, I spent several days in your town, and those friends of Emmett's treated me so well, I have often thought of them, but I would be glad if I might go over that little experience again.

I saw Emmett once since then, for we passed a couple of days with us at our home in Roxbury, Mass., when he came down here with a patient.

I am writing you because I think it probable that you know Dr. Daley and his family, and thus I am in a measure paying my tribute of respect and love to that couple, who were worthy, and now are waiting to greet me among others when I am called to join the innumerable caravan, which moves to that mysterious realm where each must take his chamber in the silent halls of death.

SPEAKS FOR BONUS

Barre Attorney Says Opposition Has No Argument

During a speech made at the Armistice Day celebration in Barre, S. Holister Jackson, a prominent attorney of that city and a brother of W. Nelson Jackson of Burlington said: "There has been much argument. The speaker said, 'about adjusted compensation, commonly called the bonus. What is there to argue about? The conscripts who stand at home receiving fancy wages in the war industries. Those who went to camp and battle grounds, who went because they were physically fit, who were the flower of American manhood, received a soldier's wage, bought their own insurance, and returned practically penniless to begin again. If the war had lasted six months longer, as large sums as is required for the bonus would have been expended. Some of those who profited by the war speak of the bonus as putting a price on patriotism. Who are they to thus grate patriots? Do they forget the bonus given Washington, Lafayette and a score of others? Are they not willing to extend to the private the same quality of appreciation they give the general? Is it not better to start them off independent than in later years to pension them?"

The Allen A. Co., bowling team made a stubborn fight against the Green Tigers when the two teams met at the Y alleys last night but had to be satisfied with winning one of the three games played. It was the second defeat that the Green Tigers administered to the shirt makers in their many meetings this season but it was a more difficult job than it was the first time they bowled.

Hanley was high scorer with 219 and 543.

TURKEYS WORTH HALF MILLION COMING EAST

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 25.—A trainload of turkeys, worth close to $500,000 in the retail market, left Cincinnati last night over the Big Four Railroad for New York and Boston. The gobblers, 60,000 in number and dressed, will be housed in refrigerator cars.

The train will be made up from shipments received here during the last two days from the big best producing section of Kentucky and Tennessee.

The wholesale price of turkeys in Boston Thursday was 63 cents a pound. The retail price of turkeys in Cincinnati Thursday was from 55 to 63 cents a pound.

MRS. STILLMAN WINS
IN APPELLATE COURTRuling is that Justice Morschauer
Had Right to Confirm Referee's Vindication

New York, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Anne U. Stillman won another point yesterday when the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn unanimously affirmed the order of Supreme Court Justice Seeger refusing to set aside Supreme Court Justice Morschauer's confirmation of the report of Referee Daniel J. Gleason. Mr. Gleason's report found that Mrs. Stillman had not been proven guilty of misconduct.

"We consider that the only matter before us for judicial determination is whether Justice Morschauer had jurisdiction to determine the motion. A notice of motion does not in itself bring the case within the control of any particular justice only when the notice of motion is brought on for hearing, and not by service of the notice.

"At the time when the order to show cause was signed by Justice Morschauer, the motion had not been brought on for hearing at Nyack. Therefore we reach the conclusion that Justice Morschauer had jurisdiction to entertain and determine the question and so decide. Order affirmed without costs."

Counsel for Mr. Stillman, in an effort to upset Referee Gleason's report, applied to Supreme Court Justice Tompkins for an order granting judgment in Stillman's favor. A hearing on it was set for a few days later at Nyack. In the meantime, John E. Mack, guardian for baby Guy Stillman, whose legitimacy was upheld by the report, applied to Justice Morschauer for confirmation and a similar motion was made on Mrs. Stillman's behalf. The order was signed by Justice Morschauer before the date of the hearing before Justice Tompkins.

William Rand, of counsel for Mr. Stillman, said last night that he would make no further attempt to have Justice Morschauer's confirmation of the report of Referee Gleason overturned. He intimated that he would soon continue the fight in court on another phase of the case which he would not discuss.

MRS. PROUTY ASKS IN TRIAL

Claims New Evidence Regarding
Killing of Ex-Gov. Prouty by Train

St. Johnsbury, Nov. 25.—The decision now rests with Judge Harold B. Howe as to whether a new trial shall be granted in the suit of Mrs. Henrietta Prouty for $200,000 damages from the Grand Trunk railway for the accidental death of her husband, ex-Gov. G. H. Prouty at a grade crossing near Waterville, Me., on the morning of Aug. 19, 1918, on the claim of negligence on the part of the Grand Trunk, that the customary signals were not given at this time.

The verdict was in favor of the defendants the Grand Trunk R. R. in the trial of July, 1919. Since then there have been three hearings on a motion for a new trial, the last one being Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at Newport before Judge Howe. On Tuesday the argument for a trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence was given exhaustively by the plaintiff's attorney, A. W. Farman, who produced affidavits from witnesses in which they declared that their testimony at the trial was false.

STATUTE IN DISREPUTE

"Moral Sense" of People Being Undermined by Constant and Flagrant Violation

Washington, Nov. 25.—Ways and means of strengthening the hands of the government in its determination to enforce the prohibition laws occupied the entire time yesterday of President Harding and his cabinet, it was stated at the White House.

The discussion lasted for an hour and the executive and his advisers were represented as feeling that the question was of vastly more importance than generally accepted.

The interest of the government, aside from the single question of law enforcement, was said to lie in a concern about the undermining of the moral sense of the people by a continued, flagrant and too ready violation of the statute.

There was no legal decision by the cabinet as to just what steps were to be taken, but a high administration official said it was thought that some appeal would have to be made to the conscientious, government-loving and reverent attitude of the people of the United States.

This official declared that when men who had respect for other laws sanctioned the illegal traffic in intoxicating liquors without a qualm, there were indications of a situation which inevitably would have serious and far-reaching consequences.

The discussion, it was stated officially, did not enter the field of modification of the Volstead Act but was confined solely to the enforcement of that act. The question of keeping the government enforcement authorities everlastingly at it, occupied some attention of the cabinet, but it was stated that there had been and was no criticism of the prohibition administration.

LOADED WOOD WRECKED STOVE

Dummerston Farmer Used Ancient Method to Punish Thief.

Brattleboro, Nov. 25.—That it is not profitable to steal from a farmer's woodpile is the lesson learned by a Dummerston resident, according to information that came from that place.

For some time persons living in that town have missed fowls from their hen roosts and wood from their woodpiles and suspicion has rested upon a man living in a shack there.

One of the farmers who thought to teach the man a lesson selected a fine chunk of wood from his pile, bored a hole in it, put in a heavy charge of powder, plugged up the hole and sawed off the plug. Then he placed the chunk back in the pile in a conspicuous place, where it naturally would be picked up by anyone stealing from that woodpile.

The stove in the suspected man's shack was blown up and the pieces were piled outside the building. Luckily the man was not injured and the shack was not set on fire.

TON OF TROUT IN ONE HAUL.

Taken From Lake Dunmore For Stripping Purposes.

Montpelier, Nov. 25.—A catch of over a ton of lake trout in a single haul of a seine in Lake Dunmore has been reported to the fish and game commissioner by Special Deputy Warden H. A. Booth. The haul consisted of 756 trout, one of which weighed 14 pounds.

The fish were taken for the purpose of stripping eggs and 571,799 eggs were shipped to the Holden hatchery at Pittsford.

The eggs taken are nearly double the number ever secured there in a single season.

Most of the fry will be returned to Lake Dunmore.

BULGARIA SEEKS SEAPORT

Move for Outlet into

Lausanne, Nov. 25.—(By the Associated Press).—Richard Washburn Childs, chief American spokesman at the Near Eastern conference, amazed other delegations today by reiterating the insistence of the United States upon the open door policy in Turkey.

Eleutherios Venizelos, former premier of Greece and M. Stamboullsky, the Bulgarian prime minister, faced each other at yesterday's session of the Near Eastern conference, when an effort was made to reach an agreement on Bulgaria's claim to an outlet into the Aegean Sea. Both men showed great emotion.

Stamboullsky was holding out for the actual possession by Bulgaria of the port of Dedegatch, contending that in no other way could Bulgaria be guaranteed free commerce. Venizelos opposed this proposal in an impassioned speech, holding out for a free port at Dedegatch under the control of a mixed commission.
